"We still have to create new quality infrastructure for our people to live, rest and work. Together we can improve the lives of the people and increase the contribution of the construction industry and the housing and utilities sector to the development of this country, but to achieve these goals we need everyone to be involved. Events such as Russian Construction Week are one of the ways to share experience and encourage a professional dialogue."

"This project is an important event in the construction industry, as it provides a unique platform for sharing experience, discussing current issues, and presenting the latest technological achievements that contribute to the development of our sector. Testimonials

Dmitry Kashirsky

Director and founder, FrameLab

"We have been working on the idea of frame houses for six years, offering ready-made solutions for builders. But it our first time at RosBuild. I am pleased that we managed to prepare well for this event. Since the opening of the exhibition, we have had many visitors. They say that our stand is the best. The first days of work here showed that it was time to scale up production. We saw demand for our products. We have some potential partners now. We also got acquainted with interesting manufacturers of insulation materials. I hope these meetings will bear fruit."

Irina Balashova

Head of Sales, SDSVET

"The Illuminating the Cities special project was really interesting for us. Compared to last year, this year we saw a significant increase in the exhibition. We are already discussing some projects in the format of technical assignments. SDSVET have some plans for RosBuild 2026: expanding the showcase of energy-saving lamps, demonstrating new solutions for street and landscape lighting, presenting projects for lighting public spaces, and even more interactions with visitors."

Aleksey Suglob

CEO of the Moscow Office, Saros Group

"Despite the current difficulties in the industry, our projects have become even more diverse. Participation in Rosbuild is a new but impressive experience for us. There are a lot of people here. Their interest is sincere. The exhibition opens up the main thing: new partnerships and prospects for the development of our equipment. We will definitely continue to take part in RosBuild!"

Testimonials

Sergey Sekin

Executive Director, the Glass Union

"World of Glass has become not only a show for demonstrating the latest technologies and innovative solutions, but also an important platform for exchanging experience and generating business contacts. For many years, World of Glass has been a reflection of the latest trends and achievements in our industry. It is encouraging to see how interest in glass and glass products is only growing. May it become not only a place for you to find new business opportunities, but also a source of inspiration. I wish you all every success and fruitful work!"

Olga Chigodaykina

Chief Editor, OKNA Media

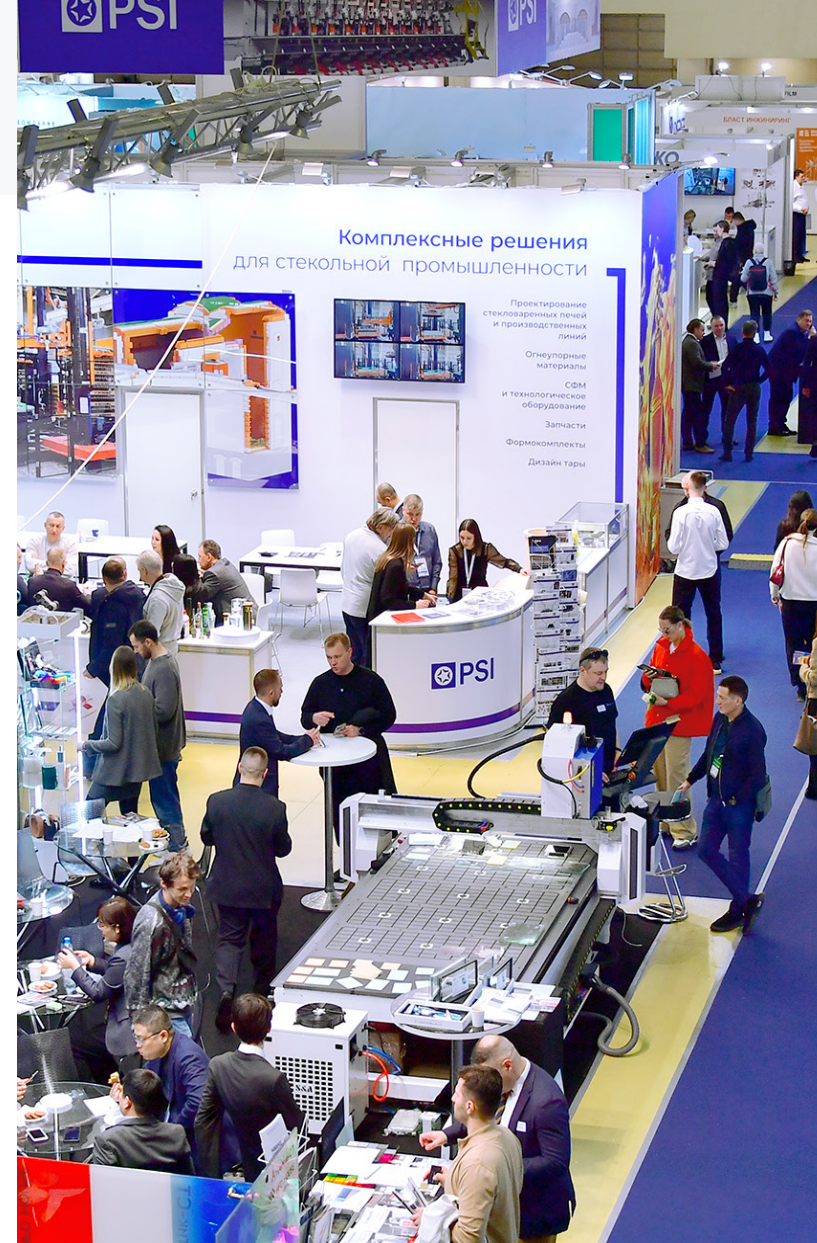

"Although the market is currently facing challenges, glass is the future. Panoramic glazing and curved facades have become the No. 1 trend in architecture. World of Glass is critically important for the industry. Here you can find suppliers of equipment for the production of large-scale solutions, up to 20 m! We would also like to highlight the Time of Glass Conference. Its interactive format is unique as 85% of the industry participates in it! The only drawback is the lack of space for such a rush!"

Anatoly Savitsky

Sales Manager, North Glass

"World of Glass plays a very important role for the industry. This is a unique opportunity for all market players to meet under one roof to talk about opportunities, discuss demands, and find new partners. After the excellent results of last year, we are participating again. We see how the interest is growing. There are a lot of people here. The first day was very active. It is great!"
